Dont have an ArtRage 2? The ArtRage 2 is available for purchase on the Bit-O-Rama and include a download code for ArtRage Studio. This is the full version of ArtRage allowing you to create all your artwork on the go using your tablet. Read more about ArtRage 2 on our website, ArtRage 2 . If you have a CD for ArtRage 2, there should be a 20 digit serial number printed on the sleeve, in which case youre all set and can skip to the section about registering with us in the member area. Adding other actions to the Done button Version 9.1 of LiveSVG is available for download on the Bit-O-Rama. The purpose is to create mini actions, this means you can add a little more thing or operation to the Done Button. Like quite a lot of live web developers, I have been using LiveSVG to create my buttons and menus, and sometimes I just like to go to the original XHTML code behind a button and add what I want to change. Have tried one of Your projects from book ordered from You. Works good in Windows, but in Linux i have problem not directly pertaining Your lesson but with Arduino IDE has problem with serial. Im not talking about connecting board to computers USB, that works fine. Its rather whether You call for Serial.print in code or not, when compiling it gives error: No module named serial. I understand that ESP32 needs python to work with IDE (or that Im just assuming, correct me if Im wrong). ESP8266 works fine. I have Python 3 installed ans also installed pyserial(with pip3 comm.) But no matter I tried it gives error again. 5ec8ef588b
